PARTNERSHIP VALUE PROPOSITION

By partnering with LSCMUN, your organisation gets the opportunity to be part of an event that brings together students from different backgrounds around science, diplomacy, and issues that matter today. With discussions covering areas such as biotechnology, climate change, global health, biodiversity, and emerging technologies, the conference gives partners a chance to connect with students who are genuinely interested in these fields.

We can provide visibility for our partners through social media, event branding, delegate kits, promotional materials, and other activities throughout the conference. We are also open to partnerships beyond financial sponsorship, whether that means providing products or prizes, supporting a particular part of the event, conducting a workshop, or finding another way for your organisation to be involved.
